

CAREERS IN AGING WEEK

APRIL 1-7, 2018

There are wide-ranging career opportunities in the field of aging and aging research. Join one or all of these events to learn more about topics in aging and professional opportunities.

Monday, April 2 | PhD in Aging Panel

Current doctoral students in public health, social work, occupational therapy, and psychology to discuss their experiences. No RSVP needed. Hosted by Aging in Graduate Education (AGE) student group at Brown School.

5-6pm, Brown Hall, Room 118, Danforth Campus

Wednesday, April 4 | Crash Course in Aging: Fast-Paced Facts on Longer Life

Speakers talk for FIVE minutes or less on a variety of fun and interesting topics related to aging. Register at public.health.wustl.edu/events. Hosted by the Harvey A. Friedman Center for Aging at the Institute for Public Health.

6-8:00pm, Emerson Auditorium, Knight Hall, Danforth Campus

Friday, April 6 | Non-Academic Careers in Aging

Emerging scholars and experts discuss how to approach searching for jobs in the field of aging. Hosted by the Gerontological Society of America. Register at www.geron.org/programs-services/gsa-webinars.

11:00am-Noon, Webinar

Get Social!

Can't attend an event? Snap a photo of yourself, your office, your classroom, etc. Describe your career interests in aging on social media using #CIAW or email ciaw@geron.org.

Washington University in St. Louis