The Harvey A. Friedman Center for Aging at the Institute for Public Health hosts this annual event to highlight current ideas and research in aging, and to recognize professionals providing outstanding service in their field.

Visit previous Friedman Lectures:

April 4, 2017: "Future of Health Policy in an Aging America"

April 28, 2016: "Intersection of Aging and the Arts for Health and Wellbeing"

April 22, 2015: "Better Living Through Innovation: Responding to an Aging Society"

May 8, 2014: "Developing the Workforce for an Aging America"

May 3, 2013: "Creating Aging-Friendly Communities"

April 30, 2012: "The Aging Mind: Realities and Myths"

May 24, 2011: "Friedman Center for Aging Research: Selected Updates"

May 25, 2010: "Productive Aging: Cross-Cultural Perspectives from China and the U.S."

April 21, 2009: "In the Words of the Artist: The Influence of Age on Creativity and Expression"

May 13, 2008: "Are we Licensed for Life?: Transportation and Driving Issues in an Aging Society"