Global Health Work in Progress (GHWIP) meetings bring together members of the Washington University global health community to learn about each other’s work. Individuals working on a grant, paper or a new idea are encouraged to present their research and get feedback.

Monday, May 10 | 1–2 p.m.

Online: REGISTER HERE

Cindy Brantmeier, PhD
Professor of Applied Linguistics
Arts & Sciences
81 Languages and 25 Million People in Ghana: Healthcare Worker’s Assessments of Pandemic Literacy

George Kyei, MBChB, PhD
Assistant Professor of Medicine
Division of Infectious Diseases
School of Medicine
HIV and COVID in Ghana, What Patients and Caregivers are Saying

To learn more, visit publichealth.wustl.edu/ghwip